“ My story is about the relationship we have with John Maloney, our Tennessee Technical Sales Representative. John is an outstanding person as well as highly respected and a valued partner to us when we need technical assistance. John has an abundance of wisdom and knowledge about Carboline Products and applications. John is who we think of first when we have questions and concerns. He relates well to every aspect of our business, from the painters all the way to our CEO. He is engaged with his profession and is soldier for the coating industry. ”
